Credit Score
Explanation

Credit Score is calculated by using five main factors. Each credit agency will have slight variations for each variable and how they interest it. The five factors are payment history (35%), credit utilization (30%), credit length (15%), addition of new credit (10%), and types of credit (10%).

Notes and Action Items

- It is a good idea to keep your two oldest credit cards open, while you continue to build your credit.
- We noticed a credit card has been opened in your name that we do not recognize, we need to contact the credit card company to inquire more information and stop possible identity theft.
- Now that your credit has been run, it is recommended that you go ahead and freeze your credit at all three credit bureaus.
- It looks like there was an error reported by your credit card, we need to dispute that claim with the credit bureau.
- Your utilization is too high (over 30%), we should pay off some of the credit or ask for an increase in the credit limit.
